Lisbon, January 30. N. S. We have no freſh Advice from the Coaſt of Brazil, but what comes by Letters from Boſton in New-England, and Philadelphia in Penſilvania, which tell us, a Sloop was arriv'd at New-York from Antegoa, with News that two or three Ships of the Squadron Commanded by Monſieur du Guey Trouin, were put into Martineco in a bad Condition; and very much ſhatter'd, from Rio de Janeiro in Brazil, where the French had landed, but were beaten off with the Loſs of Three thouſand Men, by the Portugueſe Governor of St. Sebaſtian, who had been reinforc'd by a Body of Eight thouſand Men from the Mines; and the French Squadron being forced in their Retreat, to receive the Fire of the Forts which they had paſs'd before by the favour of a Fog, ſuſtain'd the Loſs of twelve or thirteen of their Veſſels. Upon the News from Rio de Janeiro, the Nobility, Clergy, and even the common People of this Place, according to their Power, have made a free Gift of Plate and Sums of Mony to his Portugueſe Majeſty, to enable him to Recruit his Army and re eſtabliſh their Commerce. About two Days ago the Durſley Gally from Barcelona brought Advice hither, that the Confederate Army had broke through the Enemies Quarters, and put a Reinforcement into Cardona, upon which they raiſed the Siege, left their Sick and Wounded behind them; and that all their Cannon, Ammunition and Baggage were taken; that General Count Staremberg had made publick Rejoicings for this Victory, and that General Nebot was purſuing them in their Retreat. This News has been received here with great Satisfaction, and we daily expect the Particulars.
